OPERA HOUSE, MAY 3d. THE VOICE OF THE POPE

CAUSES CONSTERNATION AMONG THE LAND LEAGUERS.

The Question Is: What Has the Vatican Been Promised for It, and Who Promised It?-Carl Schurz Banqueted-Minister Pendleton Almost Well-Notes.

DUBLIN, May 2.—The pope's decree has produced consteruation in the ranks of the and leaguers, who as yet do not know where they stand. The priests, many of whom performed the clerical work of the leagues and daily. whose countenance has been the soul of the movement, will unquestionably be required to withdraw from the organization if the Marine and Tornado. plan of campaign is persisted in; and the grent body of the priesthood specially instructed by the pope's decree, will scarcely fail to discourage the plan of campaign.

It will lutensify the hate of the Irish peasantry, as well as their political leaders for the government, but must disrupt the lengue or greatly weaken them by a falling off in contributions. What the church has denounced Irishmen have not generally persisted in. Such is the opinion of the more conservative class of Irlshmen.

to believe that the Irlsh people will not take of the Cercle de la Rue Royale. their politics from Rome, and thereby lmas heresy.

Now that the gist of the edict of Pope other methods adopted by the Irish Home Rulers to get even with hard landlords and other obnoxlous persons has been published, therewith, are: What has the Vatican been promised as the price of the decree, and who has done the promising? Whether these questions be explicitly answered or not, it is uow quite certain that neither party to the compact, if one exists, will find it an easy matter to carry out its agreement.

Apparently the papal rescript has had as ittle effect in altering the determination of the Irish Home Rulers to continue their warfare against the landlords, and the English government, In their owu way, as the protests of the Ulster Orangemen have had in convincing the Parnellites, that all of Ireland, worthy of special legislation for its welfare, was situated ln the lmmediate vicinity of Belfast, Certainly that part of the decision of the congregation of the inquisition intended for the public eye does not seem, when read carefully, to be very formldable, and It is not difficult to see how it can in many ways be evaded. How much more severe the requirements of the separate orders issued to tha Irish hierarchy may be cannot, of course, be even conjectured, but it is safe to say that the prelates upon whom the execution of such instructions devolve, will find It greatly to the interests of the church to construe them very liberally.

Singularly enough there has developed in Conservative and Unionist circles almost as much opposition to the edict of the Vatlean as is displayed in Ireland, though upon entirely different grounds from those taken by the Irish. A very large section of these objectors to papal Interference in political matters between England and Ireland regard the decree, ohvlously issued through government influence, as au admission of the ministry that lts policy in Ireland has been a failure; that the government is unable to govern Ireland without the assistance of an ally and that the party in power is committed to concessions to the pope repugnant to the views of Tory churchman. The general opinion is that the decree can do the Irlsh no harm, but will rather strengthen the National league, while it is dillicult to see what either the church or the government has gained by its promulgation.

He complimented Bismarck and the Hoensollerns, giving them the credit of German unity and of being the preservers of peace in Europe.

THE NEW CHIEF JUSTICE,

CHICAGO NEWSPAPER COMMENTS ON MELVILLE W. FULLER.

They All Unite in Praising the Man Whom President Cleveland Has Appointed to Fili the Seat Made Vacant By the Death of the Late Morrison R. Waite.

CHICAGO, May 2.—The Globe, Democratic, this morning says: "It would be an abrogation of judgment foreign to the character of the Globe to say that Melville W. Fullar is the fittest citizen for the post of chief justice of the supreme court, whom the president could have chosen. Not holding such a bellef, the Globe will not make such an assertion. Conscientiously, however, it may be said that the president could have made, even among the distinguished men that were recommended, a worse selection. Mr. Fallor is a lawyer of very high character, whose most distinctive traits are sincerily and conscientiousness. Though he has had no judicial experience, the constitution of his mind is such that those best acquainted with him probably will hesitate the least to express the opinion that he will be a painstaking, pure and perfectly upright judge."

The Inter-Ocean says: "President Cleveland could not have made a better selection. Mr. Fuller is a great lawyer and a man of irreproachable record in every respect. He is not worn out and fossillzed, neither is he inexperienced." The Times says: "That in Mr. Fulier's appointment the president has acted wisely and judiciously is a matter wherein illustrious predecessors have at time woefully blundered, the quick assent of the senate will testify. No possible reason can be conjectured why confirmation should not instantly follow." The News says: "The president has made a selection that will give general satisfaction Mr. Fuller's character and abilities are best known, the appointment will be regarded with especial favors. He has occupied a prominent and honored place at the bar of Illinois, and in the political counsels of the Democratic party he has been a strong conpervative force for good."

The Tribune says: "It will give hearty satisfaction to the friends of the Hon, Melville W. Fulier that the president, after long vacillation between the Delaware senator, who represented Bayardism and state sovereignty, and the American minister at London, who represented Anglo-mania and the aristocratic system, as against the Republican, has at last turned to Illinois and made his selection here of a Democrat against whom there are no animosities and whose ability and character are above reproach. As a war Democrat and as the advocate of political reform he is so far above the presidential standard that it is a matter of some surprise the president should have selected him. As a Democrat had to be selected, however, it is matter for congrutulation that the president chose better than he knew in the midst of his fright,"

The Hernl says: "The greatest prize of the legal profession, the richest jewei in the professional labers, has been awarded, and justly awarded, to our distinguished townsman, Mellville W. Fulier. A more fitting selection, or one that would better command the respect of the bar and the country, the president could not make. Rich in the acquirements essential to the judiciai character, Mr. Fuiier also possesses the firm and just mlud and the courage necessary to him who would worthliy fill the seat made illustrious by Jay and Ellsworth, by Marshall and Taney."

In the most highly protected industries wages have declined in many instances, while the boot and shoe industry of Massachusetts, comparatively unprotecthighest wages received in any part of the New England States by manufacturing operatives.

EGYPTS SLAVE GIRLS.

THEIR LIFE COMPARED WITH THAT OF THE ENGLISH DRUDGE.

The Scant Wages of Civilization-Work of a Soudani Servant in the Land of the Nile-The Fair Circassian's Usual Fate. No Sense of Degradation.

The English drudge rises early and goes to bed late, working eight or twelve hours a day, either in her miserable garret or in a huge manufacturing hive. Pinched with hunger and cold, worn out with labor, exposed to temptation and degradation, her joyless life stretches behind her and before her, with no pleasures to look back upon, no hope to look forward to. The wages she earns. those wages which proudly separates her from the slave, are barely sufficient to keep body and soul together, till at last the body gives way or the soul revolts. Then comes the inevitable end, and a verdict of "Death from starvntlon" or "Found drowned" closes

The Soudani girl is taken from her parentai hut of sticks and mud and sold to a respectchie family or perhaps a very rich one. In the first case, she will probably be alone; in the second, she will find others like herself. She represents so much capital invested, and is looked after with equivalent care. She is a servant whose wages have been paid twenty years in advance. It is true they have not been paid to her, but that is all the better for the girl. She is well housed and well fed, and wants for nothing. She is immediately provided with decent clothes and set to housework. She has charge of the family washing and cleaning, and of the kitchen, and generally fulfills these duties much better than a untive paid servant would do. She is under no special restraint, accompanies her mistress shopping or does the marketing herseif, and gossips her fill with the neighbors as she hangs out the linen on the house top, or sweeps the front door step.

Her work is hy no means hard, and after the fashion of Egypt, where every man is a brother and every woman a sister, she is looked upon by the family quite as one of themselves. Speaking from personal observation, we may affirm that the black women are almost invariably treated with the utmost kindness and indulgence, and are often spoiled like children by the too great good nature of their masters or mistresses. They constitute a very merry, happy portion of the popula-tion, and it is seldom one can find a black giri without an infectious broad grin on her poltshed face. If she chooses to marry, as she often does, with her owner's consent, she receives a dower, and goes forth a "free" woman In the letter, though often, as she finds to her cost, a greater bond slave in the spirlt than in the days of her servitude.

Now let us go a step higher in the social scale, and piace the middie class English girl, compelled to work for her fiving, side by side with the Circassian, and we shall find again that all material advantages, of which alone we speak, are not on the side of the free. The Circassian is a little fair haired lass from a far village in Turkestun (pace Dr. Tanner). Her father is a robber or a herdsman, and she will perhaps be a princess. The Prince Charming, whom the governess is always looking for, but who never comes, is a very strong potentiality in the future of the white

One day a bearded and venerable old Turk arrives from Stamboul, and picks out our little girl. She is not carried awny by force, but gold is counted out, and she is perched on a mule, and bids good-by forever to barburism. The purchaser takes every imagin able pains with her education and appearance. She is taught to read and write, to dance and sing, to embroider in silk and play the guitar, and further initiated into all the mysteries of the toilet. When she has grown into budding womanhood the dealer lets his best customers know that he possesses a treasure almost priceless, and all her virtues and beauties are detailed with the usual Oriental exaggeration. Finally, some royal princess or rich pasha's wife expresses a wish to see her, and extra care having been taken with her both and dress, she is presented for inspection. She gives samples of her accomplishments, musical, gymnastic and otherwise. Accepted, she is at once clothed with a rich silk dress, and receives a present of a necklace or bracelet as an earnest of favor before she joins her fellow slaves. Beyond assisting her mistress in the toret, accompanying her in her drives, and handing her coffee and eigarettes, she has little to do. She is an ornamental appendage rather than a servant, A household such as one of these Circassians would enter, would contain a crowd of men servants and black women to do the work, and perhaps ten to twenty other girls like herself, and a very gny time they have together. The great ladies are very fond of exchanging visits and giving musical entertainments, at all of which some of the slave girls attend. When she goes out with her mishress in the natly little broughnm, aimost the only difference between the lady and the maid lies in the former taking the right hand seat. The giri is dressed in a way to do credit to the house she belongs to, and often sparkles with jewels, chatting freely with everybody at the places she visits, and enjoying herself as fully as any of the emancipated.

When the time comes for her to be married, her owner chooses a sultable inusband and gives a rich dower, and many of the marringes of shive girls eclipse in magnificence those of even the wentthier classes, The erstwhile barefooted rngged little Circasslan from Turcoman's Land is now a princess or pasha's wife, with slaves of her own; but she would laugh If you suggested to her that there was mything degrading in their position or had been in her own.-London Saturday Review.

A Visit to Dr. Franklin.

Mr Cutler says of his visit to Dr. Franklin: "There was no curlosity in Philadelphia which I felt so unxious to see as this great man, who had been the wonder of Enrope as weil as the glory of America. When I entered his house I feit as if I was going to be introduced to the presence of an European monarch. But how were my ideas changed when I saw a short, fat, trunched old man, in a plain Quaker dress, bald pate, and short white locks, sitting without his hat under a tree (In the gardeu) and, as Mr. Gerry introduced me, rose from his chair, took me by the hand, expressed his joy to see me, welcomed me to the city, and begged me to seat myself close to him. His voice was low, but his countenance frank and pleasing. He instantly reminded me of old Capt. Cummings, for he is nearly of his pitch, and no more of the air of superiority about hun." -Magazine of American History.
